Flawless spring systems for individual needs

Bonel Spring Technology

Pocket Spring Technology

SL Continuous Spring Technology

Micropocket Spring System

Offsettech Spring Technology

Bonel Spring Technology found on Bellona mattresses is one of the most prevalent spring systems in the world and maintains your mattress quality for many years. High carbon, heattreated helical springs provide that first day quality for years. The spring frame construction connects each spring to the other with steel wires. Developed especially for those who want a semi soft mattress. Mattresses made with this system from Bellona are Ecoplus, Aloe Vera Soft, Bioenergy Comfort, I-Plus, Releks.

Bellona mattresses with Pocket Spring Technology, designed to help relieve the pressure exerted on the body's sensitive points, help maintain your body's natural shape and provide a comfortable sleep surface. Designed especially to provide you the comfort you need, Pocket Spring Technology is available on Bellona's Golden Comfort mattresses.

SL Continuous System uses twice as many springs than the other spring systems and helps provide more contact between the mattress and the body. The springs are interconnected so they move concurrently and evenly with the pressure dispersed throughout the system, hindering spring deformation. High suspension SL Continuous Spring System is considered to be one of the most qualified spring system Technologies, and is available on Aloe Vera Twin, Premium Comfort, Still, Caprice, Nostress, Bioenergy Active and Golden Smart mattresses.

Micropocket Spring System found on the top layer of the mattress, encased in special cloth pouches is made of reduces resistance springs to provide optimum support for your body. Designed especially to help provide a more comfortable sleep surface by supporting body mass evenly. Micropocket spring's lawless sleep surface helps provide better sleep. Bellona mattresses with Micropocket Spring System include Bioenergy Comfort, Premium Comfort mattresses.

Offsettech Spring Technology responds quickly to your every movement, providing support and a comfortable and healthy sleep environment. If sensitive sleep surface is a priority for your comfort sleep, Offsettech Spring System Technology available on Bellona's Ofsetform mattress is right for you.

Miraculous beauty! Aloe Vera

The aloe vera plant, originating from Africa, has been the inspiration for many a legend and used as a beauty and healing agent by many civilisations. Ancient Egypt's legendary queen Cleopatra is said to rely on this plant for her beauty regimen. Reknowned through the ages, Aloe Vera plant's reputation as a relaxing agent and beauty enhancer, trusted by many civilisations has lived on to our day and age. The liquid gel substance inside the branch is rich in beneficial active ingredients. One of aloe vera's most prominent features is how good it is for the skin. Known for delaying the aging process, when applied as a cream onto skin, Aloe Vera leaves skin feeling smooth and moisturized.

Deep down health for the body and mind.

MEDITATION

Various meditation techniques have come to our day and age, dating back to around 5000 years ago, known to be practiced by many civilisations and cultures around the world for relaxing the mind and body. Although widely known and practiced in the east throughout history, meditation has made its way into the western world fairly recently. It wasn't until the middle of the 20th century that meditation became popular in the west, particularly in America. The focus of many studies in the 1960's and 1970's, meditation has been found to be a mental activity leading to a certain fourth state of mind that is different than the sleep, awake and dream states defined by medicine.

Contemporarily, meditation is used as a mental and physical relaxation technique. While practiced as a spiritual cleansing technique by many cultures, meditation helps individuals reach higher concentration levels. Through meditation, individuals are able to focus and relax their soul. Eastern cultures see meditation as a deep rooted mental stimulation technique. Meditation helps exercise a conscious effort to reach a state of being quiet, calm and aware. It helps the individual achieve intense interaction with all that is taking place around them. It relaxes the soul to relieve the body's stress. Although meditation alone is not considered to be therapeutic by itself, the mere fact that it relieves stress indirectly leads to improved health. While calming the soul, meditation helps gather energy for optimum health. Holistic health benefits of meditation include a clear and open mind. Your sleep benefits from meditation as well. Meditating during the day, or just before going to bed helps you fall asleep quicker and enjoy continuous sleep. After a night of good sleep, you will wake up relieved of stress and well rested, ready to greet the day with energy.

Reduce stress.

Improve sleep quality.

Boost your immunity.

Delay aging.

Energize the body and mind.

In today's busy world, stress is the leading cause of many health concerns. Regular practice of meditation will help you relieve stress and maintain a healthy body and mind. Meditation helps us achieve conscious and sensory development and relaxation. While regulating blood pressure, meditation has also been found to help us think more clearly. Relief of complicated thoughts is in itself a stress relieving agent.

There are so many reasons behind sleep quality. Stress, breathing problems and blood pressure are just to name a few. Meditation helps relieve these concerns. The act of meditation helps regulate heart beat, breathing and relieve muscular strain. The pressure exerted on our bodies is relieved through stress which in turn leads to a clear mind and body. Sleep quality improves directly as a result of this mental and physical relaxation.

One way to improve your immune system is meditation. By activating every point of the body, meditation helps cells renew themselves. Another benefit of meditation is detoxication, which in turn leads to improved immunity of the body. Meditation helps complete body-mind integration.

Meditation helps activate the secretion of age retarding hormones. It is especially beneficial for improving sub skin surface circulation and regulating muscular resilience which directly improves skin renewal. Regular meditation practitioners enjoy the benefits of their effort on the inside and outside. On the outside they look younger while on the inside they reap the rewards of all systems working optimally and staying younger.

Meditation helps the soul stay calm and the body relax. The act of meditation helps improve intra-body communication amongst every organ, which helps put your body and mind in sync. It also helps the brain function more effectively. All this together lead to greater levels of motivation, energy and mental activity.

Focused on better sleep with concentrated energy!

Good sleep comfort is essential for replacing the energy we lose through the day and keeping our body systems in optimum balance. Bellona knows that good sleep calms and energizes our mind and body. The energy we store during sleep fuels our body's activities during the day. Maximum sleep comfort and joy!

SL Spring and Minipocket Spring

Bellona Premium Comfort mattress owes part of its superior comfort to SL Continuous Spring System which has smaller spring diameter than regular spring systems so that the body is in contact with more points on the body than regular spring systems. The other part of superior comfort comes from the Micropocket Spring System made with individually pocketed and diminished resistance springs used on the top layer of the mattress. The combination of these two spring systems helps you get the extra sleep comfort your body needs.

Shower before bed.

Keep a regular sleep schedule.

Take a shower before going to bed. A warm shower shortens the time it takes to fall asleep. It also helps you relieve stress and daily fatigue easier. Remember to cool down before you go into bed. Otherwise you will experience perspiration during sleep which might interrupt your sleep.

Regular sleep schedule helps the body fall into a sleep routine. Our bodies eventually make regular schedules a habit. Going to bed and waking up at the same time programs your mind and body for a regular sleep schedule.

Pay attention to room temperature.

Never eat right before sleep.

Wear loose fitting clothing.

Sleep in a dark room.

Limit caffeine consumption.

Room temperature effects sleep quality directly. Research shows that it's easier to fall asleep when room temperature is between 14-24 degrees Celcius. When room temperature is above or below this interval, it causes waking up during sleep. Keep the room temperature at the 14-24 degree interval for continuous sleep.

Eating right before going to bed will most often cause indigestion. We especially need to look out for fatty foods high in calories, which overall lower your sleep quality as well as lead to other health concerns. Instead of eating before sleep, we suggest intaking minimum amounts of liquid. This is beneficial for your health and sleep quality.

Our sleep is full of activity and our clothes should allow for free movement. Constricting clothes limit our movement and disrupt our sleep with multiple interruptions. Another feature to pay attention to in selecting sleep wear is preferring comfortable cotton clothing to artiicial fibers that cause friction. Cotton clothing prevent perspiration during sleep.

The hormone responsible for maintaining the body's natural biological clock and adjusting our biorhythm is secreted only during the late hours of the day while you sleep in the dark. Sleeping in the dark helps you rest fully. Shielding your eyes from light helps you fall asleep sooner, and helps you get comfortable sleep.

Cafeine keeps you awake and disrupts your sleep pattern. Consuming cafeinated products right before bed may lead to sleeplessness. Pay attention to your cafeine intake for continuous quality sleep.

Natural sleep source!

After a long day, what could be more relaxing than a natural sleep? No matter how we went to bed, nothing beats waking up cheery in the morning. A key factor to waking up with a smile is getting uninterrupted sleep. At Bellona, we know that a mattress designed to help put the tiring day behind you is one of the most important assets to your overall comfort. So we developed a mattress to help you relax in comfort and relieve your body from tiredness.

Place a pillow between your legs.

Stay true to your sleep position.

Use a pillow.

Put aside worries.

Sleep neither too much nor too little.

A pillow between your legs makes for a more comfortable sleep. By preventing the leg from exerting pressure onto the spine, the pressure on the hips and lower back is also relieved. The pillow helps maintain the body's anatomically correct position to prevent lower back and muscular cramps as well as help relieve varicose veins and sciatic from acting up.

Enjoy your sleep time with the correct sleep position. Sleep position may change depending on your body's features, however making sure to keep the same sleep position each night while trying to fall asleep is the first step to continuous sleep. If you fall asleep in the same position each night, your sleep position will become a natural fall asleep habit for your body and mind.

Head and neck health is important for sleep. Most problems related with snoring and waking up often are often associated with not using a pillow or using the wrong type of pillow. Pillows help maintain the spine in its natural form during sleep as well as providing support to your head and neck. Pay close attention to selecting the right pillow to ensure comfortable quality sleep.

One of the most important reasons behind sleeplessness is stress. Sometimes we toss and turn with every worrisome concern occupying our thoughts. The result is always the same: Sleepless nights and tired body. One way to put aside worries and not take them with us to bed is to clear our minds before we go to bed. The bedroom should be reserved as a place to sleep and rest.

Sleep duration need changes from person to person. On average, we know that our bodies need 6-7 hours of sleep for a healthy life. Too little sleep can bring along a host of problems while sleeping too much is known to disrupt our body's rhythm and diminish our daily motivation. Put your sleep schedule in sync for improving overall health and well being.

Cozy bed for deep sleep!

Sensitive regions like the lower back, back and neck regions determine your overall sleep quality. The more support your mattress provides for these regions, the better continuous sleep you'll get. Bellona mattresses with spring systems designed to provide support for your sensitive regions and keeping in mind your firmness and softness preferences help you get the comfortable sleep you deserve.
